

Computers are essential part of our life.

Now computers are an essential part of our life. I can't imagine my life without it. We use it in all parts of our life.

Firstly, they make our life easier. Computers help us at school, university, at work. It's faster to write smth on computer, than by hand.

Also you can search any information you need.

Computer and Internet help us to communicate with friends, who live in other countries, for example it would be difficult to stay in touch with them without computer, but with the help of it we can send emails to each other, share photos and so on.

But on the other hand, some people keep no measure in using computers. Sometimes people are addicted to computer and it's harmful for our psychological state and of course for our eye sight.

To sum up, I think computers are really useful if we don't use them excessively.
